Alberta Law Foundation Approves Grants to Faculty of Law

The Alberta Law Foundation has approved several substantial grants to this University's Faculty of Law.

The first of these is a $250,000 capital acquisitions grant to be expended over the next five years to develop the collections in the Weir Memorial Law Library. This grant will facilitate the acquisition of new materials with the regular upkeep costs being incorporated in the operating grant given to the Law Library by the University.

The Law Library serves the needs not only of the law students and faculty, but also of the community at large. Constraints in University funding, coupled with inflation, make it increasingly difficult to preserve and enhance parts of the Law Library collection and to begin collections in new or rapidly developing areas of the law.

By way of illustration, the Faculty is developing both expertise and a program in Communication Law. Acquisition funds are required to properly develop a collection to support this activity.

The Health Law Institute on campus is a major resource for medical-legal information and research, not only in Alberta but in Canada. It is essential that the Library have an up-to-date collection of books and monographs in this area.

By agreement with the University of Calgary Faculty of Law Library, our Law Library is primarily responsible for developing collections in the medical-legal and communications law areas. There will be complete access by the University of Calgary Faculty of Law Library to the materials collected here.

Labour Law is another area imposing an increasing financial burden on the Library. The field is growing rapidly and the demands on the collection come not only from lawyers, but from arbitrators, judges, and economists.

The grant will provide a viable base in order for our Law Library to continue to be one of the best in Canada.

A second grant from the Foundation ($35,370) will allow computerized research training to continue. The training, which is the subject of an article in the current edition of Without Prejudice, is regarded by Dean Frank Jones as one of the most advanced training programs for law students available in Canada today.

A third grant ($11,003) will enable the Faculty to participate in a very extensive moot court program. Currently, about 330 students are involved in the program which consists of Edmonton Bar Moot run-offs, and the Edmonton Bar Moot finals which lead to the Alberta Challenge Cup. Additionally, there is the Clinton J. Ford Moot run-off which leads to the Clinton J. Ford Moot final; the winners go to the Gale National Competition in Toronto.

The Faculty participates in the Coughlan Cup Trial Moot, which leads to the Western Canada Trial Moot Competition, and in the Jessup International Moot run-off which leads to the Jessup International finals in Canada. The winners compete internationally for the Jessup Cup. The Faculty is inaugurating an American Bar Association Client Counselling Competition to lead to the Client Counselling Regional Competition, the winners of which go to the Client Counselling National finals in the United States.

A $40,000 grant will enable the Faculty to purchase computer hardware which will be used on an on-going basis by students who have completed the first-year computer program. This will help them to keep in touch on a "hands-on" basis, ensure familiarity with the various retrieval systems during the second and third years, and supply them with a good working knowledge of the latest in computer programs.

A request to create a data base for the Charter of Rights, and another to complete a data base in Communication Law are pending.

The Faculty of Law is grateful to the Alberta Law Foundation for its support and interest and believes that the significant and timely contributions will contribute mightily toward the maintenance and advancement of the school. □

Government Funds Mental Health Research Unit

The Alberta Government is funding a $1.25 million mental health research unit on campus. Social Services and Community Health Minister Neil Webber has announced that the new research unit will be established under the auspices of the Provincial Mental Health Advisory Council, with Helen Hunley as chairman.

Work at the unit will focus on a better understanding of certain psychiatric illnesses, including depression, hyperactivity in children, and Gilles de la Tourette's Syndrome, and will involve a study of the central nervous system through drug research on animals.

The funding will cover five years of research by a research psychiatrist, neuropsychologist, medicinal chemists, neurochemists and statisticians.

The unit will be co-directed by Ronald Coutts, Faculty of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, and Glen Baker, Department of Psychiatry. Other principal investigators are Alan Douglass (Psychiatry), Bob Bornstein (Psychiatry), Terry Danielson (Pharmacy) and Ron Miletich (Pharmacy). □

Looping Loops in the Gutenberg Galaxy

Printing Services has instituted a number of changes in the levels, costs, and types of services provided by its Satellite Centres in B105 Education North, 114 Civil/Electrical Engineering Building, and TB-29 H.M. Tory Building.

The first of these is the extension of hours from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays (Education only.) This extension is on a trial basis. Saturday openings will be reviewed periodically and may be discontinued if demand does not warrant the service.

The second change is the reduction to $5 per hour on the Micom word processing equipment operating on a bookable self-serve basis in the Education Satellite. This facility provides users with access to modern word processing equipment and can be used to prepare all types of documents, including reports, theses, letters, and manuals. Some training is available and can be booked by calling 432-3754. In addition to this short course, a comprehensive on-line training facility is available.

The third and most major change is the installation of a "debit type" card system that will be used to replace the current cash sale service in the Satellite Centres, and to supplement the coin-operated machines maintained by the Library. Tentative plans call for the installation of this system to be completed this month.

The main elements of this change are:

- (1) Debit cards will be sold at pre-set value, ($5.50, $10, $20, etc.) and will activate Satellite photocopiers on campus, and all Library coin-op copiers. The $5 value card has an added handling charge of fifty cents.
- (2) As copies are made, the card decreases in value until total value reaches $0.00, at which time the card is no longer valid.

At this point, the card should be returned and a new card purchased.

(3) After installation of this system, the charge for walk up copying in the Satellite plants will be: Cash sale—$0.06 per copy, including tax, until 1 December 1983; $0.10 per copy, including tax, thereafter. Card sale—$0.06 per copy, including tax. University accounts—$0.05 per copy (tax exempt).

(4) Cards will be treated as cash and will not be replaced if lost, stolen, or damaged. Responsibility for the card will rest with the holder.

(5) The value of the card is not subject to expiry, and will be honored at any time on a card-equipped copier on campus.

Other changes that affect the entire Duplicating Program are:

- (1) The reduction from $0.05 per copy to $0.025 per copy for the

- (2) The availability of enlargement and spot color photocopying at Printing Services. Color copies (line work only) will be charged at $0.10 per copy per color, with blue and brown currently available. Future colors are red and green, and will be made available as soon as they are received. This service is aimed at providing color covers and highlights at a reasonable rate for duplicating-type work.
- (3) The reduction of output charges from $0.10 per copy to $0.05 per copy on the IBM 6670 laser page printer, linked to OAS. In addition to this, a further reduction may be negotiated for bulk quantities of work.

Telephone Earl Olsen, 432-4246, for further information pertaining to these services. □

For years students coming back to school in the fall have groaned at the predictable assignment addressing the "how I spent my summer vacation" question. Not so for twenty-four undergraduate students in the Faculty of Medicine. For these students, such an assignment is acknowledgement that they are the "cream of the crop," those selected to take part in the Faculty's Annual Students' Research Day (see Folio, 13 October).

On 19 October, these students gathered to present to their peers, their professors, and a panel of judges papers on the research projects that had occupied them during the summer months.

Not surprisingly, many of the papers focussed on cancer research, but they were not confined to that critical area alone. Muscular dystrophy, cystic fibrosis, drug abuse, arthritis—all were addressed by students in their presentations.

Judging the papers and selecting three winning entries was no easy task, according to Brian Sykes, Professor of Biochemistry and one of the three judges. "The over-all level of presentations was extremely high," he said. "So high, in fact, that we could not limit ourselves to three winners, but felt we had to choose four instead."

Dr. Sykes was joined on the panel of judges by Joseph Clarke, Professor of Biochemistry at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children, and by Wanda Wenman, Associate Professor of Pediatrics at this University. And the winners of the $200 prize? T.A. Dewhurst, R. Kruhlak, R.B. Moore, and M. O'Brien. "These students gave outstanding papers," said Dr. Sykes. "But it is important to note that there were many other excellent presentations as well."

Students' Research Day was initiated in 1967 in memory of Michael Albert Emery. An orthopaedic surgeon at The University of Alberta from 1964 until his untimely death in 1967 (at 34 years of age), Dr. Emery was recognized as a teacher and clinical scientist of the highest potential. According to his colleagues, his greatest professional satisfaction came from his contact with medical students through his teaching and research, and thus it is particularly fitting that the Emery Memorial Fund serve to recognize excellence in research endeavor by undergraduate students in the Faculty of Medicine. □

Inuit Wall Hangings Acquired by University Collections

A sizeable amount of colorful art is being produced in the Great White North. The people behind Kaleidoscope, the cultural arm of Universiade '83, and the Clifford E. Lee Foundation were aware of the creative abilities of various Inuit artists of a number of communities, including Baker Lake in the Central Arctic. So too is University Collections, the recent beneficiary of a gift of thirty-two wall hangings from Kaleidoscope through the Lee Foundation. President Horowitz accepted the works from Mrs. Lee and her daughter, Mrs. J. Padua, at a luncheon at University House.

The Foundation, which has been generous in its support of the University, wanted to present a gift in remembrance of Kaleidoscope and came to decide on the wall hangings. Helen Collinson, Director of University Collection, purchased the wall hangings, concentrating all the while on getting examples of the number of different kinds of wall hangings produced in different communities in the Arctic.

The all-wool works, which are currently in storage (they are sensitive to dust, bright light and smoke), reinforce the "necessity is the mother of invention" truism. During the 1950s and early '60s a scarcity of caribou brought on a severe famine which forced many Inuit to shed many of the old ways. The nomadic hunting life gave way to cottage industries and cooperative organizations. Striking works in sculpture, drawing, print-making and fabric art emerged and found a ready market.

Baker Lake artists first began to create large-scale wall hangings in 1971. Traditional imagery, a sense of movement, spirit figures and dream-like fantastic forms are some of the dominant themes employed.

To get works that depict changes in traditions, Helen Collinson purchased the early, middle and later works of a number of artists, including Irene Avalaqlaq, Marion Tuu'luuq, and Winnie Tatya.

University Collections is considering ways of having the wall hangings seen and duly appreciated. Funding will likely be sought from the National Museums program to mount a traveling exhibition. The wall hangings would be given a showing here before going on the road. □

United Way Canvass Report No. 3

This report covers the period up to and including 19 October. During the first twelve days of the official canvass, 180 academic and 109 non-academic staff members donated a total of $52,163.50 to the United Way. This amount represented twenty-nine percent of the campaign objective of $180,000 for the University Employee Group.

The University United Way canvass has taken longer than expected to complete, therefore the official canvass has been extended another week to 4 November. Those not already contacted in person can expect to hear from a volunteer canvasser soon. But if the canvasser misses you and you wish to make a United Way donation, please telephone the Payroll Office, 432-3207, and request a payroll deduction authorization form. It's up to you to decide if you wish to make a donation and, if you do, how much you wish to give. □

Social Welfare Moves

The Faculty of Social Welfare of the University of Calgary, with offices previously housed on our campus, has moved to Campus Towers, 112 Street and 87 Avenue.

The move was necessary as the Faculty's old space was inadequate and no further space was available on campus. The new accommodation will enable the Faculty to conduct its operations in a more professional and efficient environment. As the location is adjacent to the campus, the close relationship with an academic environment will be maintained.

The University of Calgary is the only Alberta university with a province-wide mandate for a Faculty of Social Welfare. It is the largest such Faculty in Canada. Its divisions, including the one here, offer only undergraduate degrees while students wishing to pursue graduate study must attend the University of Calgary should they want to stay in Alberta.

The Edmonton division currently has sixty-eight full-time and eighty-eight part-time students registered in its fall session and has a total enrolment of 240 students. There are eight full-time faculty. Although the Faculty is not connected with this University administratively, its staff exchange guest lectureships with various departments here and its students have various privileges, such as use of library and athletic facilities. □

Muttart Diabetes Research and Training Centre

The Muttart Diabetes Research and Training Centre was formed in June 1981 at The University of Alberta, through an endowment by the Gladys and Merrill Muttart Foundation.

The objectives of the Centre are to provide core laboratory facilities for the Centre's investigators; to provide start-up funding for pilot projects; to train investigators interested in diabetes-related research; and to encourage interaction between investigators of the various disciplines and health professionals involved in the care of diabetic patients.

In keeping with these objectives, the Centre is now accepting diabetes-related pilot project proposals. The funding for each project will be a maximum of $7,500 and the deadline for submission is 1 December 1983.

Further details and application forms may be obtained by contacting: Mrs. Shirley Moore, Executive Secretary, 8-113F Clinical Sciences Building, The University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta T6G 2G3. Telephone 432-6855.

Campus Law Review Committee

The above committee will meet on 1 November at 9 a.m. in 3-15 University Hall to continue its consideration of the Review of the Code of Student Behaviour.

Anyone wishing to make a personal or written submission to the Campus Law Review Committee should give notice of such intent to Mrs. P.M. Plaskitt, 2-5 University Hall, telephone 432-4715.

Faculty Women's Club

To celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Faculty Women's Club, a potluck luncheon will be held on Saturday, 5 November, at St. Paul's United Church, 11526-76 Avenue, from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Senior members are encouraged to attend and share their memories with new members.

Tickets ($3) are available from Interest Group Convenors, or from Laura Steadward, telephone 436-7676 after 4 p.m.
